

Poor oils do their dirty work unseen

Anybody can understand hitting a stone wall, but if more owners understood what poor oils do to a motor—poor oils would cease to exist.

That's why the leading motor manufacturers are rapidly adopting and vigorously advising the use of Wolf's Head Oil.

Here are some of the famous manufacturers who already use or advise the use of Wolf's Head Oil:

WOULD FINE THE SUICIDE

French Woman Adopts Method Which Puts an End to Much of the Self-Destruction, Posts Sign Near Lake Which Has Good Effect

Paris, Aug. 23.—Close to the old Breton town of Fougères is a pond beside which is a signpost setting forth in large letters that, by order of the local authorities, "all persons drowning themselves in the pond will be heavily fined."

During the past few months, quite a number of persons, tired of life, have ended their lives in the placid waters of the little lake, moved no doubt by the spirit of imitation so frequently found in persons of unbalanced mind. A woman dwelling on the bank conceived the idea two months ago of putting up the notice in question, and the instinct of obedience to the behests of authority is so deep seated in the French mind that no suicides have occurred in the pond since.

Paris, the traditional resort of kings in exile, now harbors the ex-Sultan of Morocco, Abdul Aziz.

His majesty, in flowing robes of white, is to be seen daily in a large automobile, driving along the boulevards. To distract him from his gloomy thoughts he was taken to a well known vaudeville establishment to see the "Revue." The potentate gazed with indifference at the long array of gorgeously arrayed dancers; only when Jack Johnson appeared to give an exhibition of boxing, and to dance with his wife, did a gleam of interest dawn in the royal eyes. "What a splendid slave he would have made for me a few years ago," said his majesty with a deep sigh.

Residents on the Swiss shore of Lake Constance are watching with great interest a series of experiments with a new aerial gun, conducted over the lake from a Zeppelin airship. Great secrecy has been maintained about the trials, and the full results are not known. Firing from a height of 800 feet, it was observed that the floating target was riddled with bullets, while from 2500 feet another target suffered considerably.

It is understood that the new gun is a quickfiring, a kind of aerial machine. It is not designed to sink vessels so much as to kill the crews. The experiments are always carried out at sunset.

There is a persistent report that the vacant chair at the French academy is to be filled by a woman. The Académiciens themselves are understood to be favorably disposed to the innovation, in view of the indisputable talents of the person mentioned, the Comtesse de Noailles, who recently declared by a distinguished foreign critic to be the greatest living French poet.

Anatole France, when asked recently the date of his next appearance at the Academy, is said to have replied: "Very shortly—for the election of Madame de Noailles." The French Academy is never in vacation, and this year is no exception to the rule. At the last meeting there were only half a dozen of the forty present, but the never-ending task of revising the great dictionary went on as usual.

There are at present more waiters than guests in the Swiss hotels situated at high altitudes, as the result of the continuous cold and rain during July. The hotels in the valleys, however, are crowded with tourists, who have been waiting for weeks for better weather to go up into the mountains.

The first part of the summer season has been a complete failure, and it is estimated that hotel proprietors, railroads and storekeepers have lost over $1,250,000. Climbing in the high Alps has been too dangerous this season, and Lake Constance has overflowed in several parts, flooding a number of villages and towns. As a result the tourist travel has been unusually light. The weather now, however, shows signs of improving and visitors probably soon will begin to flock to the higher levels, but it is too late to prevent the season of 1913 from being one of the worst of many years.

The Bank of France has decided to strike into coin the whole of its gold metal reserve, amounting to $600,000,000.

The decision of the bank was caused by the recent gold crisis in Europe, and the fact that foreign banks in troubled times, do not like to take gold in the form of bars. At the rate at which the gold is being minted, about $5,000 twenty franc gold pieces a day, it will take at least two years for the whole of the reserve to be coined.

A curious congress, that of the "Infirm and Atrophied of France," will be held in Paris during October.

The program of the congress has not yet been made public but among other festivities will be a reception at the Hotel de Ville which the Municipal Councilors promised, without realizing what it might entail. It has now been pointed out to the councilors that the legless and otherwise infirm delegates will have great difficulty in ascending to the reception rooms and the question of installing an elevator for the occasion is being discussed.

The number of persons acquitted by French juries on the ground of partial responsibility is growing to dangerous proportions, and the question is likely to be dealt with shortly by parliament.

The urgency of the problem has been brought up by a resolution of the jury at the Paris Assizes, which points out that the law, as it stands at present, leaves them no alternative between outright acquittal and the infliction of penalties which, under the circumstances, are excessive. The jury explains it has to deal with persons who, while not entirely responsible for their actions, are yet sufficiently responsible to deserve some punishment, instead of being allowed to go scotfree.

HOLDUP CAUGHT BY FOOTBALL PLAYER

Salt Lake, Aug. 23.—Holding a revolver at each side of his head, two men held up Harry Mannus, a Greek popcorn vendor, at his stand, Third South and Second East streets, at 12 o'clock last night, taking $25 in money and his watch, according to Mannus.

Within three minutes one of the holdups had been captured by J. A. Cartwright, night clerk of the Heron hotel, in a flying football tackle, and was taken in custody by Patrolman A. C. Hargrove. He confessed to taking part in the holdup and gave his name as Arthur Guver, 18 years of age.

The two men approaching Mannus as he was sweeping out his stand preparatory to closing for the night, and applying the muzzle of their revolvers to his head while he was stooping over, demanded his money. One took several dollars in loose silver from his right hand trousers pocket and his watch, while the other took a purse which Mannus said contained $17 in bills, from a back pocket.

The robbers separated, one being lost track of, while Mannus pursued Guver north on Second East street and west on Second South street, shouting that he had been robbed. Patrolman Hargrove was between First and Second South on Second East street, on his way home, and joined the chase. Just west of the Garrick theater the holdup dashed north into an alley. He was followed by Cartwright, who had been sitting with some friends in front of the Heron hotel, 133 East Second South street. The alley is in the form of a horseshoe, having a second opening about six rods east. The capture was made and the pursued and pursuer went down in true football style just as they were about to emerge again upon Second South street. In the meantime, Patrolman Hargrove had arrived at the mouth of the alley and secured the man as soon as Cartwright had made the tackle.

CAPTURE OF A WILD MAN

After Two Years a Strange Oriental Dweller of Forest Is Taken Into Custody by Officers Near San Francisco—Three Hollow Trees Make Home

San Francisco, Aug. 23.—A wild man was caught yesterday in Marin county, across the bay from San Francisco by Sheriff Keating and a deputy and will be held at the county jail in San Rafael, pending an inquiry to determine whether he is sane. The wild man is emaciated and ill and the first thing the authorities propose doing is to nurse him back to health. He ate a hearty supper last evening, but so far efforts to converse with him have been unsuccessful.

For nearly two years complaints have been made by residents of Camp Taylor of a wild man that frightened women and children and pilfered articles of food. Until yesterday Sheriff Keating had been unable to track him to his lair. The officers stumbled upon his camp by accident and had no difficulty in arresting him. His few clothes, which were of American make, were fashioned into the semblance of a Turkish costume. His general appearance and swarthy skin strengthened the sheriff's guess that the man was an oriental.

The camp revealed a curious combination of primitiveness and civilized equipment.

It was built around three big hollow trees, one of which was used for sleeping quarters. The floor was carpeted with the skins of squirrels, skunks, coyotes and mountain lions. Another three the wildman had rigged up as a kitchen. The stove was made of stones and had a stovepipe fashioned of tin cans ingeniously wired together. The third tree was the storehouse and contained quantities of nuts and dried berries. Nearby was a tiny potato patch, carefully cultivated.

DESERTERS IN A BIG UNION

Los Angeles, Aug. 23.—Ray Whiting who according to his own confession made to the police in the city jail last night following his arrest, is a deserter from the United States battleship California, started the police on a chase which may end in the most startling series of arrests ever made in Los Angeles. According to Whiting, some 100 men in a three-story house more than 200 deserters from the United States navy and army are living without fear of the police. As nearly as the police were able to learn from Whiting, deserters up and down the Pacific coast have established headquarters in this city. Every day new deserters swell the ranks of the union. Money turned in to the union from a hundred different cities, mostly seaports, all comes to Los Angeles, say the police, and here is placed in the general fund.

Looking for Deserters' Union. Ten detectives have been detailed on the case and within the next twenty-four hours the officers say they will have rounded up the gang. The outskirts of the city are being combed by the police and the work of trying to locate the mysterious house will, they say, be finished today.

Officer Hook, who made the arrest of Whiting last night, is the one to whom the credit of first learning about the gang belongs. After Whiting had been placed in a cell he asked to see Hook and then told the story of the "Deserters' Union," and also made a full confession of his own case.

According to Whiting he is the son of a wealthy Bostonian. He refuses to give his father's address and also says that Whiting is not his right name. He told the police that he had injured his head in a football game a number of years ago and that three years ago he was placed in an insane asylum from which a short time later he escaped.

Deserted at San Diego. Coming to the Pacific coast Whiting said that eighteen months ago he enlisted in the navy, and up to the time of his desertion about three months ago he served without thought of running away. In San Diego while ashore with some other

NOTED BOTANISTS TO VISIT UTAH

Salt Lake, Aug. 23.—Salt Lake City in general and the Commercial club in particular will be host today to an eminent coterie of plant geographers—botanists, to be explicit—who will arrive here from Colorado Springs early in the afternoon. If the Denver & Rio Grande train is on time the distinguished visitors will arrive in time to take luncheon at the club between 1:30 and 2 o'clock.

The party comprises seven noted college professors from abroad and eight residents of the United States, including two representatives of the agricultural department in Washington, who are aiding the botanists in every way possible. The party comprises:

Professor H. C. Cowles of the University of Chicago, who is the virtual head of the expedition.
Professor and Mrs. F. E. Clements of the University of Minnesota.
Dr. and Mrs. Brockmann-Jeroch of the University of Zurich, Switzerland.
Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Dachnowski of the Ohio State university.
Professor Adolf Engler, director of the botanical gardens at Berlin.
George D. Fuller of the University of Chicago.
Dr. George E. Nichols of Yale.
Dr. Ove Paulsen of the University of Copenhagen.
Dr. Edward Rubel of the University of Zurich.
Professor Carl Schroter of the University of Zurich.
Dr. T. J. Stomps of the University of Amsterdam.
Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Tansley of Cambridge university, England.
Professor C. von Tübeuf of the University of Munich.
T. H. Kearney and Dr. H. L. Shantz of the agricultural department, Washington, D. C.

The contingent from abroad arrived in New York City on August 1, where they were joined by the American members of the party. Several days were spent in the vicinity of New York and the party then moved on to Chicago, Lincoln, Neb., and Colorado Springs, Colo., in the order named, where exhaustive investigations were made.

The botanists are making a careful study of the distribution of vegetation, with special reference to climate, soil and geological conditions. From Salt Lake City they will go to Tooele valley, where Mr. Kearney of the agricultural department will feel perfectly at home, as he spent three

QUOTES THE POETS; KILLS HIS FAMILY

New York, Aug. 22.—Leaving for the coroner a letter, in which he apparently sought through quotations from philosophers and poets to justify the taking of life, Henry W. Lake, chief in a restaurant, murdered his wife and four children and shot himself, dying later in a hospital.

Lake and his dead were discovered lying in their Brooklyn home several days after the crimes were committed. The police are not certain whether it was Friday or Saturday that the tragedy was enacted.

"I am tired of living," Lake wrote to the coroner. "My wife is slowly dying, and our four children are small, delicate, and sure to get trampled on in the struggle of life. It is best for them to return to unconscious dust with their parents (see Schopenhauer's 'Essay on the Sufferings of the World')."

Lake was found faintly breathing. Beside him were a revolver and an automatic magazine gun. In a bed with a daughter, Dorothy, aged 12, lay Mrs. Lake, who was a sufferer from cancer. Estelle, aged 14, was on the floor. Walter, 10, and Horace 17, were on the floor in another room. All had been shot to death. Lake did not regain consciousness after reaching the hospital.

In his letter, Lake killed insurance money, and jewelry to a sister, Mrs. Blanche de Mar of Saranac Lake, N. Y., whom he requested to have the bodies cremated. A few of the quotations which concluded the letter were:

"Death is nature's most admirable invention"—Seneca.
"There are preachers of death, and the earth is full of those to whom it is necessary to preach the abandonment of life"—Nietzsche.
"Die at the right time. I praise to you my death which comes to you because I will."—Nietzsche.

CREOLE ASKS FOR AN ESTATE

Chicago, Aug. 23.—A woman who says she is a creole and who gives the name of Mrs. Lucinda Anderson appeared before Judge Dankowski in the probate court yesterday afternoon and filed a claim to the estate of the late William H. Lee, the Chicago publisher, whose past life is a mystery and who was supposed to have died without heirs. Mrs. Anderson claims to be Lee's widow.

The petition simply sets forth that Mrs. Lucinda Anderson is the widow of William A. Anderson, alias William H. Lee, and that they had four children, two of whom died in infancy. The others were named as Mrs. Lucille Brown and Mrs. Sadie Burdine of 5425 South Wabash avenue.

Mrs. Anderson declared in court she would go to Coroner Hoffman today and ask the exhumation of Mr. Lee's body in order to make a positive identification. She said she had identified pictures published in the newspapers some time after the death of the publisher as those of her husband, who deserted her thirty years ago and of whom she never had obtained any trace until the death of the man known as Lee.

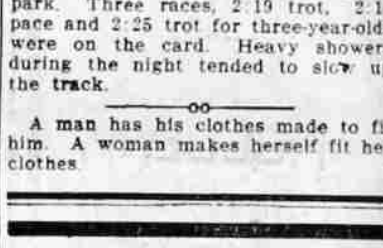

The woman is almost white. Likewise, she said, her husband could easily pass for a member of the white race. They lived in a negro settlement known as "Smith's corner" at Yorkville, Mich., a village near Benton Harbor, she said, until he disappeared thirty years ago.

Since then she had never heard of him, until her daughter, Mrs. Burdine, began an investigation following the publisher's death, when she told the judge, she became aware that he had used the name of Lee and posed as a white man.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACES

Salem, N. H., Aug. 23.—Today was the closing day of the 1913 meeting of the Grand Circuit at Rockingham park. Three races, 2:19 trot, 2:14 pace and 2:25 trot for three-year-olds were on the card. Heavy showers during the night tended to slow up the track.

A man has his clothes made to fit him. A woman makes herself fit her clothes.
